Neopopulism and Neopopulist Parties in Twentieth Century Russia. A Bibliography

During 2008 and 2009, Russian historians K. Morozov (Moscow) and A. Suslov (Kazan'), supported by a grant of the Russian Humanities Fund, prepared for publication the manuscript of „Neopopulism and Neopopulist Parties in Twentieth Century Russia: A Bibliography”.

The main objective of the project was a scholarly generalization and systematization of biographical and bibliographical information on the history of the largest Russian neopopulist parties (such as the Socialist Revolutionaries) for the duration of their existence both in Russia and abroad. The directory consists of three major sections: “Sources”, “Literature”, and “Researchers”. The section “Sources” includes a description of documents on neopopulism and neopopulist parties in the main Russian state archives. This section also includes a list of neopopulist periodical press before and after 1917. The “Literature” section aims to encompass the vast field of publications on the research subject. More than 1500 titles have been processed. Since including publications of a general nature would have substantially increased the amount of pointers and made it more difficult to use, a rigorous selection has been made in this aspect. The section on “Researchers” selectively includes information on Russian and foreign historians engaged in the history of neopopulism. Questionnaires as well as personal interviews and personal information from other sources have been used for this section. At the moment, the editors are searching for funding to publish the book.
